Find Elliott's One-Day Bride Hiding From Him

CAUGHT IN THE NET

ELDERLY WIFE IN TERROR

Agnes Dunn, Married on Impulse, Ran Away on Wedding Night, Relatives Say

New York, June 28.—A dispatch from Montreal says Philip Elliott and Richard Thorne, the Broadway play boys, will fight extradition to the last ditch.

The two young men, who on Saturday morning pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault, announced that they would go to bat on the issue.

They are charged with having beaten Violet Anderson, New York show girl, with belts and switches, after they had stripped her.

When Deputy Sheriff Thomas V. Underhill of White Plains returned from Montreal today after seeing Thorne and Elliott, he said he was told Elliott of Miss Anderson's accusations, Elliott exclaimed: "Who, the idea?"

Philip Elliott's "bride of a day" was hosted by the New York American. She is Agnes Dunn, a dancing teacher, now of Minneapolis, three years ago, her family said, she fled and hid herself, changing even her name to get pursuit. Since then, they said, she had been hiding in Montreal.

Only when they learned Elliott was behind prison bars in Canada would the family agree to reveal her whereabouts. Elliott, with young Richard Thorne, a play boy, and Agnes Dunn, a show girl, was under arrest in Montreal charged with brutally force and violence against the actress.

Agnes Dunn's family said they were shocked by Elliott's behavior, but they were not willing to help him.

PUBLICITY SHUNNED.

The Dunn family, consisting of father, mother, two younger sons and two daughters, is living on the East side, midway between the Murray Hill and Gramercy Park blocks.

To avoid inconvenience, none of the family received any of the newspaper accounts of their connection with Elliott's trouble.

Agnes Dunn, the family stated, came to live in New York last week. She has been living in a small apartment under an assumed name, and has been conducting a modest society club.

IMPULSIVE MARRIAGE.

According to members of her family, Agnes' marriage to Elliott was the result of a sudden impulse, which was immediately regretted. Agnes was a member of the orchestra staff of the dancing academy at Grand Central Palace when she met Elliott, who claims to have been the dancing partner of Jeanette Hughes.

Consequently, Miss Dunn said, took her as his dancing partner, and Elliott, as he later introduced Violet Anderson to Elliott and Thorne. A few hours later they were married at the Municipal Building.

Miss Dunn then vanished from New York restaurant circles and her old friends lost all trace of her.

RICHARD THORNE

GRAND JURY IN MONTE PROBE

The Suffolk County grand jury will start tomorrow to investigate the love affairs of Nicholas Wiseman, better known as "Count Zui Monte."

On the night of her wedding three years ago, her family said, she fled and hid herself, changing even her name to get pursuit. Since then, they said, she had been hiding in Montreal.

Only when they learned Elliott was behind prison bars in Canada would the family agree to reveal her whereabouts. Elliott, with young Richard Thorne, a play boy, and Agnes Dunn, a show girl, was under arrest in Montreal charged with brutally force and violence against the actress.

Judge to Decide If Mermaids May Show Charms

New York, June 28 (L.N.S.)—After drifting helplessly for ten hours in Lake Erie in a bathing apartment, four prominent Cleveland residents were rescued today by the steamer William Maiker, which saw their distress signals. The men in the party soaked their shirts in gasoline and used them as torches.

The party which was saved just as the boat was about to go down consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Mary Zettlemeyer, president of the Zettlemeyer Golf Company; Miss Helen Jaeger and Richard Kroesen, president of the Cleveland Sport Goods Company; Mrs. Zettlemeyer formerly was Miss Berle Wilson of the Ziegfeld Follies.

IDENTIFY GIRL IN DEATH LEAP

Springfield, June 28.—The body of the young woman who jumped off the Memorial bridge Sunday night into the Connecticut River was positively identified today as "Miss Ida Mae Spaulding, eighteen years old, of Springfield, Vt."

The only person to see the girl (whose name was Ernest Rose, a deaf mute, of Maple street).

The girl went to a local employment bureau last week and secured her position with the "Missed family." She appeared in excellent spirits yesterday. At the employment bureau, she said she lived in Springfield, Vt., but told the Springfield family she lived in Springfield, Vt.

Gas Soaked Shirts as Torches Save Boat Party

Huron, O., June 28 (L.N.S.)—Frank S. Mitchell, a member of the crew of the Olmsted schooner "Edith K. Rose," has been picked up in an exhausted condition by the steamer "Charles Brock," according to a wireless message received here today.

Mitchell was adrift in his day about 20 miles west of Lake Island. No other details were given.

FISHERMAN IS WOMAN SUICIDE FOUND ADRIFF

Two Metropolitan policemen won a close race with death, when they seized Mrs. Edith Buchanan of No. 11 Prescott street, Somerville, as she prepared to leap from the top of the Charles River dam.

Adolph Rosenhand of No. 128 Cambridge street, West End, saw the woman climbing the rail and ran to the ladder station nearby for help. Two officers sped to the spot just in time to prevent the woman hurling herself into the river. Her husband, Benjamin Buchanan, took her home, after telling the police that she had been despondent over ill health for some time.

3 Die in Fire

New York, June 28.—Three children were burned to death and several others injured when fire swept in five-story brick tenement in the Bronx.

COPCUTS OFF MAN'S ESCAPE

A neat little foot race was staged today in the South End between a lodging-house keeper and Theodore Campini, who has had several adventures, but the question of who is the faster may never be decided because the police suspect nipped Campini who was in the lead.

It was the second time the lodging-house keeper that made the race possible when he sighted Campini who is alleged to have stolen clothing from the lodging from the lodging house a year ago.

Campini sighted him at the same time the race was taking place in a street near the South End. Campini was in a hurry to get away, but he was stopped by the police. He was taken to the police station and held for a few hours.

EVERETT MAN HELD ON SLAYING CHARGE

Palma Prescott, 33, of Park street, Everett, was held without bail in Malden District Court today on a charge of slaying Augustus A. Prescott, 33, of South street, Everett. Prescott died in a brawl while Mary, his blind wife, was also present.

Attorney Lee A. Rogers, who appeared for Prescott, asked Judge Thomas P. Hilly to reduce the court held it was a matter for the district attorney to decide. Rogers told the court Prescott had been in a picture over Prescott's head and several drinks had been served during a card game.

SHOOTING OF FIVE MARKS STRIKE IN CANTON, CHINA

Canton, China, June 28 (A.P.)—The shooting strike in Canton, which has been in progress since the British colony of Hong Kong and wounded a number of Chinese, has been called off by the British authorities. Scant attire helps mightily in breaking records, the modern miss interested affirms, and that she is living up to her idea the above illustrations indicate.

FAIR, COOL WEATHER FOR TWO MORE DAYS

Fair and comfortable weather for at least 48 hours and perhaps longer will prevail in Boston and New England, the weather man said brightly today, as before a cool day. With a noon temperature of a comfortable 65, the glass showed a reading 10 degrees lower than Sunday's maximum. No rain is in sight, the only sign of a storm being one in the Gulf and North Atlantic states that moves so slowly that even if it should head this way it would not reach here under two full days. The weather forecast is "fair today, not much rain in temperature."

Philadelphia Pair Spent Only $47.19 in All From Concord, N. H., to Hartford

Concord, N. H., June 28 (A.P.)—A telegram received today announced that Horace Hovey and Pines Thompson, both of Philadelphia, riding in a car that cost $35, won the automobile obstacle race from St. Paul's School here to Hartford, Ct., on Saturday.

The trip was made in seven hours and thirty-one minutes, with a total expenditure of $47.19, which includes the purchase price of the car.

Six students, two in a car, were entered in the race. The conditions provided that not more than $50 should be spent on the trip, including the cost of the automobile.

A car of a popular make, costing $20, with Charles Boutell of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Roger Cheney of Hartford, Ct., arrived four hours after the winners.

The third car, with Ashley Chamber of New York and Brooks Dolan of Philadelphia as crew, were abandoned on the road.

"SPITE FENCE" ROW WARMING UP

Mr. and Mrs. Carmelo Sicari and their two daughters of No. 3421 Washington street, Jamaica Plain, are prepared to ask the courts to order the removal of the "spite fence."

ROXBURY MEN HELD ON WEYMOUTH CHARGES

Charged with drunkenness, with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and other offenses, a man giving his name as Frank L. Morrill of No. 275 Roxbury street, Roxbury, was arrested by Weymouth police after he was chased into Braintree. With him was a man who gave his name as Michael Johnson, of No. 125 Mowland street, Roxbury, who was arrested for drunkenness.

WHALES STAGE WAR OFF JERSEY COAST

Ashbury Park, N. J., June 28 (A.P.)—A school of whales was reported about a mile off shore today by 11. D. Brown of the Deal Coast Guard station. Brown said that three of the mammals had been sighted and that there was a great commotion in the water. Sightings of whales have been going south within the last three weeks. Last night two hauled each other for more than a half hour, rising at times 20 feet out of the water.

11-FOOT FENCE STARTS STRIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Carmelo Sicari of No. 3421 Washington street, Jamaica Plain, expect today to start court action for the removal of what they call a "spite fence" from a block of what they claim their land.

The fence, wooden and not high, was constructed Saturday by their next door neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Salvi. It runs back from the street 45 feet.

Mr. Salvi insists that she and her husband were forced to erect the fence to save themselves off from view of the Sicari family and also to guard the runway to their garage from becoming a dumping ground for Sicari debris.

Mr. and Mrs. Sicari, reasoning the action, are resolved to invoke court aid to get the fence down again. Their first move probably will be to appeal to Pipe Chief Sennott to determine if the fence is a fire nuisance.

So noteworthy appearing is the fence that a good many motorists already have stopped to give it a good look long. The Sicari insists that the fence is a "spite fence" to their contention that it was erected and is a "spite fence."

But Mrs. Salvi merely says: "The reason for erecting the fence is a long long story."

A hidden motive is the real reason for this fence, other neighbors say that "hidden" is the word, for the fence certainly hides a pattern of obtained view.

Armed with his latest crime-detecting invention, chief of which is an "euphonia" that can hear light, the investigator created a scene as they R. Hovey will track down criminals to their modern hide and reveal beautiful maidens from black-haired villages.

There will be daily installments of Kennedy's thrilling adventures, each illustrated with a picture of the detective with his latest equipment engaged in outwitting the forces of darkness.

In each installment Kennedy spins a surprise, finally clearing up the mystery with the aid of outwitting gang.

Don't miss the fascinating crime detector in his latest exploits. Tuesday, July 6, is the day, and each day thereafter.

Watch for the Boston Evening American of Saturday, July 3.

SMITH-CORNING TICKET BOOMED IN NEW YORK

Dinner at Utica Tonight Expected to Reveal State Campaign Plan

Utica, N. Y., June 28 (A.P.)—Confident that Governor Al Smith eventually will accept renomination, Democratic leaders from all parts of the State were arriving here today for the dinner at Hotel Utica tonight in honor of Edwin Corning of Albany, Democratic State chairman.

Speakers of 500 are expected to attend. Governor Smith will speak and is expected to chart the course for the campaign.

Close friends predicted today he would not reveal in his speech what he intends to do about the gubernatorial nomination.

Some Democratic leaders said they would not be surprised if a boom was launched for Corning for Lieutenant Governor. It was reported that if Governor Smith did accept renomination, he would be pleased to have the State chairman for his chief running mate.

Corning's name would like to see him nominated for Lieutenant Governor this year and in 1927 to see him head the State ticket.

There also was much speculation among the leaders of "who would be nominated for United States senator to replace Senator James J. Wadsworth, Jr. The nation's Secretary of the Navy, is heard most frequently.

With no sign of Mr. R. R. Neagle after the band had played three selections, and with no clergyman appearing forward at the altar for a volunteer, at the unveiling of the World War tablet by Edward (Samuel) Davidson, a volunteer stepped forward with the ceremony until divine invocation.

The exercises were presided by a pastor from Milledale square to Salem street. Andrew S. Scott was master of ceremonies and it was he who called for a volunteer clergyman.

Roma time again as John J. O'Neill and his sister, Mary, stood by to receive the veil from the tablet, and after Scott had brought a woman speaker to the platform, Mr. Neagle arrived. From his guidance was then invoked and the program carried out according to schedule.

Washington, June 28—War from farms and the farmer, Congress set today to put through its program of farm relief legislation, but even as the preliminary moves were being made the proposed relief was being rapped in Iowa and Wisconsin.

With the farm relief measure disposed of, Congress hopes for adjustment of the Federal Reserve bank, prohibition bills and the French debt settlement on the agenda until December.

Senate leaders to the administration camp hope for a vote before Tuesday night on the Food-Tincher credit and the cooperative marketing bill, while passage of the deficiency bill is looked for in the House.

Instead of pleasing the farm disinterested in the point of view, cheering, the proposed relief drew from President Charles E. Hovey of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation a charge made direct to President Coolidge that the administration has failed to keep its pledge to the farmers.

Senator's telegram to the President described the farm relief proposals as "unworkable" and proposed to hand the farmers legislation that will be inadequate and in no way meet the requirements of the greatest present-day national problem.

Almost simultaneously, the platform of the conservative and a Republican party of Wisconsin was made public today and the platform set forth determined opposition to any plan of agricultural relief which would leave the Federal government in perpetual financial straits.

DAM WILL COST $7,000,000

Oakland, June 28 (Universal)—Dr. Edward J. Aird, United States Commissioner of Reclamation and a faculty member of the University of California, is in Berkeley to confer with engineers on the $7,000,000 dam project for the Sacramento River.

This project calls for a shifting dam which will prevent salt water from forcing its way up the Sacramento River during low water season. It will make available for irrigation the waters of the Sacramento River, which are now polluted with sea water at the same time when they are needed the most.

DIES AFTER FINDING MAN'S BODY IN ROAD

Rochester, N. Y., June 28—Ludwig Rockland, 52, died of a heart attack today after finding the body of a man lying in a ditch on a road near his home.

Dr. Rockland, who was called to the house to attend Mrs. Rockland, found the body of a man lying in a ditch on a road near his home.

Five minutes later Mr. Rockland died of a heart attack of acute indigestion, and died. Dr. Rockland had just left the house when he was called back. Rockland had told him he had turned the body over to the police, but neither of the un-dam covered any body.

MRS. CONVERSE WEBS-AS GIRL APPROVES

Rich U. S. Widow Is Secret Bride of Viscount; Mrs. Vanderbilt Witness

London, June 25 (N.Y.)—Viscountess Marmaduke Furness, multimillionaire shipping magnate, and his bride, the former Mrs. Tristram Moreland Converse, are today honeymooning in Scotland.

The marriage of Viscount Furness and Mrs. Converse has been frequently reported and as frequently denied, and London society was surprised to learn it had taken place. When the Princess Bowring's wedding was especially noted that they might be secretly married.

According to London gossip, Viscount Furness had postponed the wedding because of the heat. He finally decided to marry his bride, Mrs. Converse, but on a small scale and there the two became fast friends.

Ten witnesses were present at the wedding, including the bride's mother, Mrs. H. H. Morgan, and her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Vanderbilt. The bride wore a gown with a high collar and a long train.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY Anglo-American Hostesses Ready for Busy Social Season in London

CABLES FROM LONDON bring dazzling rumors of the present season's lavish splendors. Anglo-American hostesses high in royal favor who have invaded the British capital's inner circles are entertaining with utter disregard of cost.

HEAVY DRESS on the scene and a quite modest suit for the season are a most necessary adjunct to brilliant entertaining as done in England. Such are the possessions of several hostesses whose historic names are being recalled by the present season's social season.

HALF MILLION of dollars is a quite modest estimate for a social season in London, which this year continues from the beginning of June until late August or early September, when society, feeling the need of country air, breaks into a hectic road, betakes itself to various southern groups rooms.

FRATERNITY of the next Royal court is the presentation of Mrs. Mary Brown, first Anglo-American hostess from Pittsburgh, who has been invited to the court.

A LARGE SUITE at Claridge's in the Brown message is the usual. The Prince of Wales, who has been invited to the court, is expected to arrive in London in the near future.

HOW TO MAKE ROQUEFORT DRESSING

ROQUEFORT DRESSING

If you are one of the people that think they don't like Roquefort cheese on account of the pungent odor, just try this salad dressing with crisp lettuce and in a convert forever more.

With a few crisp crackers it makes a complete meal of low cal-ory count for the weightless diet, but is equally popular with the discriminating would-be plump. Do be broadminded and try it. It does tell me if it isn't the best ever. The fact that it is so easy to make is one more point in its favor.

ROQUEFORT DRESSING

Mash $\frac{1}{4}$ pound of Roquefort cheese with a wooden spoon. Add a pinch of salt, a dash of cayenne and paprika. Next slowly add 2 tablespoons of vinegar and then 4 tablespoons of best olive oil. Last of all stir in 2 tablespoons of heavy sweet cream and pour over crisp hearts of lettuce.

FIVE WAYS OF USING LEFT-OVER POTATOES

LYONNAISE

Slice cold boiled potatoes thin, add as many slices onion as you wish and some chopped pimiento. Fry together in your favorite shortening, tossing lightly with a fork until potatoes are a pretty brown.

HASHED BROWN

Chop in small dice; melt a table-spoon of butter in a frying pan and add the potatoes well seasoned, stir until covered with butter, then push to one side of pan and let brown. Serve in omelet shape.

Pittsburgh potatoes are made this same way, adding a chopped green pepper to the chopped potatoes.

O'Brien potatoes are combined with chopped raw bacon, chopped onion and a chopped pimiento. They are fried preferably in butter.

Restate potatoes are simply sliced, seasoned and browned in your fry-ing pan.

VACATIONS AND VITAMINES

TWO WEEKS is time enough to take a wonderful vacation trip on Yellowstone Park. Summer rates are way down—costs little more than ordinary vacation near home. Thrilling 90 mile motor ride through Buffalo, Bismarck country included, free and side trip from Denver to Colorado Springs. Every mile a sheer delight. Write the Boston Evening American Hotel and Travel Bureau, Room 554, 5 Winthrop Square, for more details and illustrated book.

WHEN A FELLA wants a bite to eat, he'll relish a sandwich of pure deviled ham. Best ham, chopped fine, blended with delicate spices. You can buy it now in cartons of six cans, 50c. Handy on the pantry shelf—it'll never be without a solution to the sudden-company problem.

THE FAN sensation of the year is the new night lock fan, for only $6.50. Fine workmanship and quality; blades individually molded. Has sparkling nickel finish, 14 inches tall. Takes all the discomfort out of Summer. Fine for baby, grand-ma, the invalid and the rest of the family.

FAMOUS FRENCH EPICURES agree on their favorite condiment. Delicious and indispensable. The last dash for sauce. Wonderful on salads and egg dishes, mayonnaise and cold meats. Gives pep to the commonest dish. Just add a bit of bottled genius and listen to the family exclaim!

A SIGNAL WITH A SMILE is a new exhaust horn for your automobile. Not a siren or explosion whistle; steady melodious tones. A gentlemanly caution, a courteous request and an imperative warning. Easy to attach. A signal that gives im-portance to your car.

SMOOTHER AND FINER is ice cream produced by a new five minute freezer. Two quart; bright galvanized. Nothing to get out of order; durable; makes ice cream of superior quality and texture. Only $4.50. Enough for cream, sherbet, frappes or frozen pudding in five minutes a big family.

DON'T HAVE YOUR white shoe cleaner rub off on chiffon stockings. Use a liquid cleaner that won't rub off. Cleans all white leathers and fabrics. 25c. Easy to use; quick to dry. Keeps your feet looking spic and span.

A REAL BOON to the housewife is liquid that makes old stove and other metals look like new. Absolutely removes rust. Magically polishes iron, steel, brass, bronze, nickel and copper. 40c. Did you use it on the automobile, his golf clubs and guns with great success.

A "HOLE" OUTFIT that's a necessary part of your motor equipment is only $1.50. If you have a puncture on the road, don't despair. Simply take out this little tin pan affair, clamp it on the puncture, light the fuel and in five minutes, take off the pin and your tire's all fixed. Twelve in a package.

PICNIC TIME has come and that means vacuum bottles. My favorite keeps liquids hot 24 hours and ice cold 72 hours! Has extra cups with folding handles that nest right in the bottle. Heat proof handles allow you to serve hottest liquids without scalding fingers. Rust proof, nickel plated. A life-time investment.

DON'T BOIL, eat and waste health giving vitamins and mineral salts when cooking. Certain kind of steam cooker retains all the food's nutritive value and appetizing taste. Wonderful for vegetables, cereals, dumplings and fat warming up left-overs. In heavy durable white or blue enamel. $2.50.

I COULD USE a whole page to tell you of my recent finds! Sure proof of the saying "if you give her an inch, she'll take a mile." Just watch next Monday's paper. Remember, if you're interested in any of the above articles, just check the item, clip the column, attach your name and address and a two cent stamp and send it to me.

Baked Ham and Apples

Order 2 pounds of ham cut in one-inch slices. Rub both sides of the slices with brown sugar. You will need $\frac{1}{2}$ a cup in all. Stick 4 cloves into the slices. Core and cut 4 tart cooking apples in eighths. Do not peel them. Cover the ham with ap-ples. Mix 3 tablespoons of vinegar with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of water and the rest of the sugar and pour this over the apples. Cover closely and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees to 400 degrees) until the ham is tender.

To Keep Fruit Pies From Having a Soggy Lower Crust

To keep fruit pies from having a soggy lower crust brush the sides and lower crust with beaten egg white before filling. Then sprinkle with finely ground bread crumbs. Add the filling and put at once in the oven. Adding sugar when the pie is half filled also helps to keep fruit pies from being heavy.

CLAM SOUP

For the people who don't care for clams in their chowder, here is a delicious clam soup.

CLAM SOUP

Steam 3 dozen carefully washed clams and remove them from the shells. Chop fine and add to the clam liquid with one slice of onion and enough water to make a quart. Simmer for 20 minutes. Then strain through fine muslin. Brown 3 table-spoons of butter until bubbling, add 2 tablespoons of flour and let brown a bit. Next gradually pour on the strained liquid, stirring until smooth. Add one cup of cream, let come to a boil just once and season to taste with salt. Serve with a dab of whipped cream in each plate or cup.

Sometimes clams are one of my worst weeds although I do contend that the only way to eat them is with rolled-up sleeves and a hip and tray. The secret of bringing out the luscious clam flavor however, is not generally known. If you will add a teaspoon of real Worcester-shire sauce to the melted butter, which is the regular accompaniment of all self-respecting steamed clams, you will have a sauce truly fit for the proverbial king. Remember, though, that there are many sauces masquerading under the name of Worcestershire. Be sure you get the one and only original. Of course I can't give you trade names here, but I CAN in a personal letter. It DOES pay to be particular—especially with seasonings.

HOW TO MAKE A DUSTLESS DUSTER

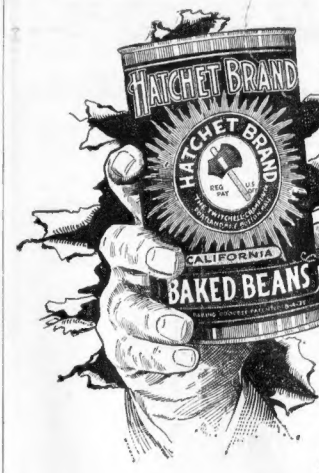

Up-to-date housewives find we are all that realize the importance of gathering up the dust instead of just brushing it off into the air only to settle back again. That is why dustless dusters are taking the place of the old-fashioned kind. These will hold the dust in the cloth until it is shaken outdoors. To make an efficient dustless duster, soak a large square of cheesecloth in a hot stream of white naphtha soap. Let it dry in the sun about 10 hours. Then wring out and dry. Useful for dusting and polishing. When the cloth is badly soiled, wash and re-treat.

To Prevent Currants, Raisins or Citron From Sinking to the Bottom of Cake

To prevent currants, raisins or citron from sinking to the bottom of a cake, warm well in oven before adding them to the batter. Then stir in lightly the last thing.

To Make Muffins and Gems Light

To make muffins and gems light, grease the pans and heat in oven a few minutes until hot before putting in the batter.

GIRLS! PHOTOS WILL GUIDE JUDGES

Laurel Wreath Will Be Given Three Early Next Month in Hub Girl of 1926 Quest

Three personable girls from Jamaica Plain and Hyde Park, smartly stylish as to the material and cut of their attire, have their photographs reproduced today as types of the arrestingly attractive fashion of 1926 for whom the Boston Evening American is searching.

Miss Lillian Davis is smartly dressed for the evening in changeable taffeta trimmed with a dainty lace. Miss Frances Viles is graceful in orchid chiffon and Miss Vivian Sullivan affects a dress of subtle samaras hue.

Will the alluring shades of their pretty dresses lure to them the Silver Laurel Wreath and the three cash awards of $500, $250 and $100 which the Boston Evening American will make early in July to the three young women the judges select as the typical Boston girls of 1926?

No more than to you if your photograph is also before the judges when they meet to make a choice. It is not difficult to learn whether you are the Boston Girl of 1926—a truly smartly dressed girl of personality and poise.

TO JUDGE ALL PHOTOS. Simply send in a photograph, then wait until you are summoned before the judges. Every photograph submitted goes before the judges for consideration, and from a mass of them the judges will select a number of young women, who will be invited before them in person at which time final selection will be made.

A Mother girl sends the following letter to be answered: "May a girl having already entered a photograph and in another voting a different costume provide the photograph first submitted is not then published? ARREST PASTOR AND GIRL IN AUTO

Buffalo, N. Y., June 23 (A.P.)—Arrest of the Rev. L. E. H. Smith, pastor of the Central Street United Presbyterian Church here, by town of Tonawanda police on a charge of entrapping public decency today engaged the attention of prohibition enforcement officers, who are conducting an investigation to determine whether or not the Rev. Mr. Smith shall continue to serve as a dry agent. Major Eugene B. Roberts, district administrator, last night suspended Mr. Smith from duty pending the outcome of the inquiry. In suspending the clergyman, Mayor John J. Feltz said he was holding the Rev. Mr. Smith in custody for the first time that Smith was drawing a Federal salary of $1,500 annually.

The case of the Rev. Mr. Smith and a woman giving the name of Eva Jax arrested with him in an automobile in the town of Tonawanda late Saturday night was decided for trial before justice of the peace in the village of Kenmore, a suburb of Buffalo, tonight.

HARRIMAN ACQUIRES SILESIAN ZINC MINES
Paris, June 23 (A.P.)—The Harveys corporation to Warsaw says the newspapers announce an agreement has been reached between the Polish government and the Harriman-Anaconda interests regarding sale of the American interests of the zinc mines held by the Von Glesche concern in upper Silesia.

It was announced in Breslau, Germany, in May that W. A. Harriman & Co. and the Anaconda Mining Company had acquired control of the Polish holding George von Glesche's heirs. Final action on the deal in Poland was delayed by the Pilsudski military revolt.

MEMORIAL TO DOCTOR WHO PUT 'LID ON STOMACH'

Lebanon, Conn., June 23 (A.P.)—A memorial to William Beaumont, pioneer psychologist of America, who led the way in research study of human gastric juice, will be dedicated here, his birthplace, tomorrow. The sponsors are members of the Beaumont Club, who are medical men from all parts of the country.

Beaumont, an army surgeon on a frontier post a century ago, cared for Alexis St. Martin, Canadian hunter, who received a gunshot wound in the abdomen. After recovery there was left an opening between the exterior part of the body and the interior of the stomach.

RACING FILM AT OLYMPIA

Conway Tearle, in the starring role of "The Sporting Lover," new film at the Washington Street Olympia, appears in the rest of an Irish nobility who gambles away his inheritance. His pride is his undoing and his loss. As a last resort he offers them in a sporting chance to retrieve his fortune. But luck is against him and he loses all. The story of "The Sporting Lover" is based on the great, literary, Lane stage hit, "Good Luck." One of the most dramatic scenes in this episode are the King and Queen of England.

Barbara Bedford, who is rapidly climbing the heights of stardom, plays opposite the star. The cast includes Ward Crane, Arthur Rankin, Charles McLaughlin and John Fox, Jr. Alan Hale, who recently gave up the role of the screen's most popular villain to become a director, is responsible for the picturization of "Good Luck," and has given to the former stage hit in its transformation.

Tipsyvilleville hill is headed by Kola and Sylvia company, presenting an act called "Happy Moments of Dancing and Piano," which is something new in the blending of these two fine arts. Merle and Manley in "Do You Follow Me" is another bright act. Short picture subjects and other acts complete the bill.

VOLCANO SHOW AT FENWAY

Seekers for thrills and hectic excitement will be amply gratified with Babe Daniels' newest picture release, "Volcano," which is now showing at the Fenway. It is an adaptation of the Laurence Erre stage play, "Martique."

The thrills are generously provided by a realistic eruption of Mount La Pele while the landers are relishing their carnival night and heart interest is ably sustained by Babe as "the girl," Randy Carter as "the boy," and the burly Wal, Jack Beery as the fiercest villain.

Miss Daniels is seen as the little French mopedette who returns to the role of Martique. Her first tragic chance is her former husband. The emotional tale rips hard at the heart strings, but a sturdy champion is ever ready with instant relief for all hot cases.

On the same bill with "Volcano," Anna G. Nilsson, Walter Pidgeon, Louie Fazenda, and "The Cook" pleasantly dispose themselves through the adventures of "Miss Nobody."

Starting Wednesday, Irene Rich and Humphrey Gordon will be seen in "Sillyen Snacks," together with Betty Compson and James Kirkwood in Frank Lloyd's "The Vice Gait."

"Anyway, we won't starve," said Jinny. "Now that Helen's married we ought to get our groceries for nothing."

READ THIS FIRST:
MERRY LOCKE, just 20, falls in love with a MAN IN GRAY whom she passes daily on boyston street, where she attends business school. He always looks at her, and finally Merry tries to flirt with him—and after that he stops noticing her.

From her older sister, CASSIE, Merry learns about the Man in Gray. His name is Anthony Gaines, and he is a young lawyer, a friend of MORLEY KAUFMAN, who employs Cassie in his office.

One night Merry goes to the circus with her youngest sister, JINNY, and DERRICK JONES, a college boy who is in love with Merry. Merry finds herself separated from Jinny and Derrick, and meets Anthony Gaines.

He drives her home, and at the gate he kisses her against her will. Merry has been kissed by so many boys that she doesn't want this love affair to degenerate into a "petting party," too. The next day she and Tony Gaines meet again and go for a drive. He tells her that he fell in love with her the first time he ever saw her, and in a burst of confidence Merry tells him that she's in love with him, too. But she adds that she doesn't know how long it will last, because her love affairs never have lasted long. Disgusted with her, Tony makes up his mind never to see her again. But he can't stay away from her.

He goes out of town on a business trip, and during his absence Merry's father dies suddenly. It is on the day of his death that Merry sees his employer, BILL HEFORTH, holding Helen, the oldest of the four Locke sisters, in his arms. She forgets the incident in the general excitement. But later Helen announces that she and Bill Heforth have been married for a month. Then Merry breaks the news to Moms that she has "flunked" her course at business school.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
Most kind of love story.
"Why waste your time reading 'Merry's' way of looking at it. When life itself is so much more exciting!"
What she meant was that it was a waste of time to read a love story in a book, when you could have plenty of your own if you happened to be pretty and alluring. She was particularly pretty and alluring on this particular morning, as she sat at the breakfast table in a light blue house dress that Helen had made for her.
If she knew nothing about housework or office work, she knew all there was to know about curing for herself. Every thread of her soft hair was like a golden thread, burned by the sunlight and every night and morning—a hundred strokes, always. Merry counted them.
Her skin was sweet in its sheer cleanliness, and satiny under its film of face powder. Her little finger said she was a million dollars at a book unless it was the truth.

STUCK AT STATION ON MODALS

Evangelist, in Usual Vigor, Delivers Two Sermons at Los Angeles; New Claw

Los Angeles, June 28 (A.P.).—While the district attorney and police today studied a mass of information on the alleged abduction of Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of the million-dollar Angelus temple here, the evangelist's congregation is contemplating her assertion that "the devil" is responsible for her unfortunate experience. Addressing more than 7,000 people in her first sermon at the temple, Mrs. McPherson said that because of her unyielding stand on moral questions Satan plotted her destruction. She said she had laughed at newspaper accounts of reputed plots to kidnap her prior to her disappearance last May, but that she now realized "that even when the devil is laying his plans."

ANSWERED CRITICISMS.
Mrs. McPherson recounted her adventures in two sermons. She devoted most of the evening address to answering criticisms that have been made relative to her story that she was kidnapped.
"While making no reference to the names of men after her capture, she said that she had been taken across the desert, the evangelist told how, while fleeing from her captors, she used part of her clothing as protection from the sun. She said her clothing and shoes showed no signs of wear because she avoided contact and other desert growth.
One of the clera police were tracing today was a report that two men and a woman had been seen at the temple prior to the evangelist's disappearance. The tale answered the description of the three given by Mrs. McPherson as her captors, according to Mrs. E. R. Locke, a hostess at the temple.

ACQUAINTED VIGOR.
The evangelist apparently had recovered from her experience, delivering the two sermons with her accustomed vigor.
Photographs have been taken of a desert shack similar to that described by the evangelist as her desert prison and are understood to be a route here for identification. Officers who found the shack Saturday said they tracked a person wearing shoes like Mrs. McPherson's to within a short distance of the structure.
They also reported finding strands of hair similar to that the evangelist said was used to tie her feet and hands.

CHAPTER XVIII.
A few minutes later, while Dad and I were sitting on the edge of a trunk in our dressing room in Hyde & Behman's Theatre, laughing and congratulating each other, a knock came at the door.
"Come in," I called out.

A short, stocky, serious-looking man entered and introduced himself.
"Excuse me, gentlemen," he said. "My name is Henry Behman. I am the brother of the man who is the head of the firm. He wants to see you folks in his office."

"We'll be there in five minutes," Mr. Behman said. Dad and I were just about to start to dress for the street.
"What do you suppose he wants?" Dad whispered as Behman left the room.
"He doesn't want to fire us, that's a cinch." And I did a couple of back steps over to the wash basin.
"I think you're right. I'd rather not think you're right. I'd rather hope it would be a better idea for you to go home alone."

"No," he hesitated. "I'd rather not go there alone."
"Well, then, suppose I go round and see what he wants? I was asking for the chance."

ERROOT FOR TRADE BILL

Rapidly Growing Commerce Makes Measure Necessary, He Declares

A bill to place the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce on a basis of greater efficiency for promoting American world trade is pending before the Senate after having passed the House of Representatives. In the following editorial the Senate Commerce Committee expresses its opinion of the reasons why the measure should be enacted into law without delay.

By HON. IRVING L. LENROTH, Written especially for Universal Service.

Washington, June 28.—We are all interested in the development of the foreign commerce of the United States. For all this information the American effort looks increasingly to the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce.

There is before the Senate a bill further to increase the usefulness of this service. The purpose of this bill is principally to give to the commerce bureau, which is rendering such valuable service to the interests of this country, a permanent status in law and to add to its administrative efficiency. Nothing is created that does not already exist and no new appropriations are called for.

NEED FOR INCREASE.
All parts of the country are equally desirous of extending their foreign trade, and the importance of developing foreign markets for American products is constantly increasing on the Great Lakes.

An example of the importance of American exports is given in a study of the figures relating to these so-called Great Lakes States of Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana. We find in recently compiled department of Commerce statistics merchandise exports by water of the United States for 1925 totaling in value $77,226,000.

This huge sum is approximately 16 per cent of the total exports of the nation for the year in question. It reflects an increase of $31,500,000 over the total foreign shipments of these six States in 1924, when they aggregated about $45,726,000. And this $31,500,000 increase makes up practically one quarter of the $125,000,000 export of the United States in 1925 over total foreign shipments of 1924.

EXPORTS INCREASED.
Four of these six States enjoyed increased export trade during 1925. Michigan, jumping its exports $9,000,000, from $17,500,000 to $26,500,000; Ohio, increasing $15,000,000, from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000.

After a honeymoon trip through the West, the couple will make their home in Brooklyn.

POINTS OUT DANGER IN REDUCING

Doctor Declares It Would Be Much Better for Fashion to Decrease Plumpness

Philadelphia, June 28.—Dr. Maximilian Kern of Chicago denounced so-called patent reducing remedies and warned women who use them against permitting vanity to interfere with health in addressing the annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy today.

"If fashion should decree that plumpness and curves were the smart silhouette," said Dr. Kern, "instead of the lean and bony figure of today, the health of American women would be improved many fold."

"Most cases of so-called obesity are actually perfectly normal conditions, or they are the result of inactivity and too much food. Under such conditions, no dieting or medication is the greatest positive danger to the unfortunates who crave the synthetic figure of wood nymphs. Most doctors have experienced innumerable cases where danger has been brought about by the administration of various reducing drugs and remedies."

Rejuvenation, by gland stimulation, was characterized by Dr. Kern as "not on the list of the forces of medical science."

Dr. Kern asserted there was no such thing as rejuvenation, except by the natural functions of the body to proper precautions, the avoidance of infections and over-indulgences, and the return thereby to physical normality.

"While," he declared, "it is all that can be hoped for under any circumstances, despite the various reports concerning millionaires who have undergone operations or treatment for rejuvenation."

Dr. Kern also warned against the promiscuous use of feline or "cat" pills. "In reality," he said, "the extreme opposite is the case. No drug is of greater injury to persons with gastric than feline pills. Some girls respond to operations, rest, diet, lack of worry and the avoidance of self-medication of parent medicines."

By JACK CONWAY

A MID scene of military splendor and with a colorful crowd in attendance, the Crosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion will stage its brilliant boxing carnival at Bravely Field tonight.

Society girls, gowned as they would for the night, will add a touch of distinction to the gathering.

Bankers, men of State military dignities and the leaders in athletics will see ring-side seats.

Then there will be thousands of everyday boxing fans who will be on hand to witness the carnival and military pageant.

There will be forty-two rounds of boxing, but that is only part of the impressive program. A military band will play music.

Press notices sent from the headquarters of the Crosscup-Pishon Post refer to the ten-round battle between Tiger Flowers, widely acknowledged champion, and Ray Neuman as the feature event. It is indeed, a sporting offering which is two other ten-round contests on the program which would be good enough for a main event anywhere.

Sammy Fuller of the North End, a spectacular little fighting machine, and Carl Tremaine of Cleveland, will battle for ten frames as will Red Chapman of Dorchester and Al Corbett of Cleveland.

There will also be two six-round events. Jimmy Amato White of New York will test the prowess of the punch against that of Jack Elliot of England, while Terry Parker of the North End will collide with Tony Carney of New Bedford.

WITH good weather conditions tonight, George W. Wilson, general manager of the Legion show, looks for a crowd of 25,000 to 30,000.

Wilson, confident that the people of New England desire offerings such as the one presented tonight, has gone to an expense of $10,000 on his big venture.

Flowers will receive the lion's share of the money, his guarantee being $10,000. The Tiger has always been a great drawing card and it is felt he will also prove a tonight.

Neuman has been training at Marlboro for two weeks and has impressed those who have seen him in action as an aggressive fighter with a good jab. He has given out Tom Paul Hendrich and Young Stripling plenty of opposition, and figures to make things interesting for Flowers.

The Tiger should win over Neuman, but the latter will prove himself in there at the finish, giving all who see him the fighting line.

THERE is great interest in the ten-round meeting between Fuller and Tremaine.

CHAMP MEETS STRONG FIELD IN TENNIS

Miss Marjorie Morrell, national girls' indoor tennis champion, will meet some hardy with the request on the Longwood Cricket Club courts today.

Miss Morrell will play the first outdoor championship, and judging from the entry list received by Mrs. William H. Morrell, this year's tournament should be one of the best tournaments ever to take place in this State.

The Palfrey sisters, four in number, will play in the girls' and junior tournaments. Sarah and Joan, the latter nine years old, are entered in the girls' division, while Lee and Marjorie will match their ability on the courts with the strong field in the junior class.

In the draw made yesterday Miss Morrell, Miss Helen, Miss Lee Palfrey and Miss Marjorie Palfrey were placed in the girls' division. They are Miss Sarah Palfrey, Miss Virginia Lee, Miss Louise Palfrey, Miss Ruth Palfrey, Miss Marion Duxon and Miss Betty Palfrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrell, a full-time tennis player, is a tennis player. He has the color that makes him a favorite with the fans. His nose to great heights when he saw Chick Rogers, New England's outstanding and featherweight champion, a close battle at Mechanic Building recently.

Palfrey is a two-handed fighter and also fast and a good boxer. He believes these assets will carry him to victory over the veteran Tremaine. The latter has skill and experience on his side and is confident of winning.

RED CHAPMAN is picked to win over Al Corbett in the other ten-round contest.

Chapman is one of the world's leading featherweights. There are many who believe Red can defeat either Kid Kauten or Billy Gato who battle for the world's featherweight crown in Connecticut tonight.

As the New York Athletic Commission has named Chapman as the opponent for the winner of the Kauten-Gato fight, it is felt that everything he has in a fighting line to put the victory tonight.

Corbett comes here hailed as the featherweight in the Middle West. He has a knockout over Edward Macart, French fighter, to his credit and believes he will hand the Chapman fight a severe test.

No fans will be asked what Jimmy Amato White of New York rates on the New England boxing scene. He is a New Englander and should produce thrills. Both of these contests are booked for six frames.

The Legion's office, at 228 Washington street, should be a busy spot today. Most of the 15,000 seats for the grandstand are selling for $1.50, while there are thousands of seats at $1.

At the sporting place of New England, the Crosscup-Pishon Post is the only one which has been in the Crosscup-Pishon Post during the summer. We know they will do it, in which case tonight's offering will be the success it is entitled to be.

BABE CAPTURES FIRST MATCH OVER NETS

Philadelphia, June 28 (A.P.)—J. A. Bary of Southern Methodist University, Tex., one of eight selected players, won his opening match in the intercollegiate tennis championship at the Merion Cricket Club today, eliminating J. T. Webster of Williams, 6-1, 6-1.

When the group sounded on June 15 to toll the close of the period for dealing in players in open market, the major leagues, and time limit for cutting down team rosters to 15 men, there was no great hurry. Few deals of any moment were announced, and as for trimming squads, practically every major league club already was down to the limit, owing to their under, despite the harping of our collaborators among baseball commentators of the evils of major cornering the market for available playing time.

Also it was noted, each and every club seemed to be observing religiously the dictum of Commissioner Landis, that not more than eight players might be sent out on spin apiece, even though the commissioner advanced a new plea as to just what constituted "out under suspension." The Clubby case as an instance.

$75,000 at Syracuse for Harness Race

Syracuse, N. Y., June 28.—It has taken more than a century of organized harness racing in the United States to finally produce the largest purse ever offered for a single event, that being the $75,000 Hamiltonian Stakes for three-year-old colts and fillies which not only will be the feature of the Syracuse, N. Y., Grand Circuit meeting, week of August 10, but also will be the real magnet in Big Time racing for 1926.

But even before in the history of the sport has a purse of any size where these proportions been offered, that being the $30,000 American Trotting Derby at headville in 1908.

There have been several ten and fifteen thousand dollar events for the colts and aged horses as well in the trotting division and 1926 and 1925 saw the beginning of the $25,000 American Trotting Derby at Baltimore.

With all due respect to the big purses of the past and present, none ever has caused the commotion that the Hamiltonian has caused and it is quite likely that none ever will.

As the time draws near when the juvenile races go to top pace in this event, the harness races fan both near and far is beginning to ask himself and his nearest friend in the harness world, "Just which colt or filly will win the major portion of the big event?"

Recently the race looks like a most open one. True, you'll find heavy odds on halfhairs for Station Bell, Sam Juan, Josephine and Strainer in swimming. These are some leaders in their respective fields and will handle other features of the work of their sports and that should offer to the average student of harness racing a choice of the work he is best fitted to see in the future and would care to further the learning of at such a season.

These are some leaders in their respective fields and will handle other features of the work of their sports and that should offer to the average student of harness racing a choice of the work he is best fitted to see in the future and would care to further the learning of at such a season.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

JUST now wonderful! He can tell you the shortest route to the North Pole and just where to find the Balkans on the map—but he can't tell you where he left the garden rake or hid the box of socks.

He can remember the names of all the ancient dynasties and most of the French kings—but he can't remember the wife sent him to the grocer's for, nor where she said she'd left the key, nor even the color of her eyes.

He can slip through the air and under the water—but he has not yet learned to walk across a freshly waxed floor without losing his balance, nor how to hold a baby without breaking its neck.

He can tell you how the water power of Niagara can be harnessed and used for a thousand gigantic enterprises—but he can't take a shower bath without soaking the floor, nor spray the garden without soaking himself.

He can lift a fifty-pound weight and heave it—but he can't lift his own shoes and carry them as far as the clothes closet.

He can splice a rope, put a tent together, put a tire on an automobile and make his own radio set—but he can't sew a button on his trousers without shedding blood and wrath.

He can explain exactly how Congress and the American people should handle the prohibition question, the foreign debt and the World Court situation—but he can't handle his own four-year-old son, nor make his two-by-four wife treat him with the proper respect.

He can figure out just how many discrete coupons, laid end to end, it would take to reach from the earth to Mars—but he can't reach up to take down the winter trapezoid without misjudging his aim and knocking over the Chinese vase.

He can tell you how Ford made his fortune, and how the government could save millions of dollars—but he can't, for the life of him, tell you what he did with the last ten dollars his wife let him have out of his pay-envelope.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman

DEAR MR. BECKMAN:

I should a wedding invitation be mailed to the mother and father of the groom?

I. If the brother and sister of the groom are to be best man and one of the bridesmaids respectively, should wedding invitations also be sent to them?

A. Should an invitation be addressed to the husband and wife and both "Mr. and Mrs." to be written on the inside envelope, or should the outside envelope be addressed only to the husband?

Y. S. The most important invitation is the one that is mailed by the mother and father of the bride to the mother and father of the groom. You see, the parents of the groom are the chief guests, the guests of honor at the wedding.

1. On the inside envelope of the invitation should be written only the name: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen Taylor. The outside envelope should be addressed: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen Taylor, 2 Home Place, New Haven, Ohio.

There should be no abbreviation (except the necessary "Mr." and "Mrs.") and no marks of punctuation at the ends of the lines of address.

FOXY GRANDPA'S BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

"It's too bad," said, "to think that there are so many bad men in the world."

"What kind of bad men are you thinking about, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby, as we drove along a dark country road in my automobile.

"I was thinking about the holdup men, Bobby," I said, "and thinking that we are not much better off now than the people in England were hundreds of years ago."

"Why, Foxy Grandpa?" exclaimed Bobby, "were there holdup men in England at that time?"

"Indeed there were," I said. "In fact, in the thirteenth century there was a law passed compelling people to chop down all trees and stumps on both sides of the road, so that robbers could not hide in bushes and hold up travelers."

"Think of that!" said Bobby. "I guess the roads were not very good, and the people could not go very fast."

"No," I explained. "The only good roads which they had in England at that time, were the ones built by the Romans. But it was not until a Scotchman came along and showed them how to build roads, that traveling was made comfortable in England."

"Tell me about him, please, Foxy Grandpa!" said Bobby.

"I will," said I, "and the result is this: Bobby, that we are traveling on the very same kind of road that Scotchman invented."

"John Macadam was born in Ayr, in Scotland, somewhere around the time of our American Revolution. And, as it happened, his family went to the American Colonies and there he grew up and became a very rich man."

"When he had made his fortune he returned to Scotland and began to make experiments with roads."

"He worked and he worked, and at last he discovered that the best road was made of very thin layers of hard broken stones, all of them were the same size and not one single stone weighing more than six ounces. Then a dressing was spread on top of that."

"John Macadam kept on working and working and then he was appointed by the British government to provide food for the British Fleet at Palermo, Sicily."

"But all the while he was carrying on his work, he was still experimenting with his own expense in road making. Finally he was appointed to take care of the roads about Sicily."

"The roads were talked about so much that the English Parliament looked into his plans and they decided that his roads were excellent. The best roads were made of very thin layers of hard broken stones, all of them were the same size and not one single stone weighing more than six ounces. Then a dressing was spread on top of that."

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By William F. Kirk

Will you wed stop at the hardware store on the way down town, and Ma to my dad this A. M. I have a man cum up & polish the living range, and Ma.

Why go to all that expense and Pa. I can do that in a jiffy.

In other words, and Pa, you do not think I am effluent. Bring me the polish, and Pa to me.

So I went & got the polish but just for a jank I got the shoe polish instead of the stove polish. A Pa. didn't know the difference. He is on rubbing the shoe polish all over the stove & it smelled like the Duke.

What in the world makes that awful odor and Ma.

I don't know, and Pa, but this polish is adding queer.

Why, and Ma, that lent stove polish, and Ma.

That is all the thanks I get for trying to help you, and Pa. After this, and Pa, I will let you pay out money like a left, Pa. and it serves me right, and Pa.

Then Ma felt kind of cheap but she was kind of mad at Pa. for the same.

You will learn soon day, and she will let Pa. to leave work of this sister to present that can do it, and Ma. Now send for the man.

I suppose I might as well, and Pa. I used to be pretty handy at shining up a stove when I was a kid, and Pa. My mother often spoke of the swell shine I put on the stoves at home, and Pa.

It was Bobbie's fault, and Pa, he knew that was shoe polish was he brot it to me. I have a notion to polish my shoe on the seat of his little pants, and Pa.

You will do nothing of the sort, and Ma. You will run into a hardware store and get a man up here that knows how to fix a stove. Imagine one of those men trying to do pure sort of work, for instance, and Ma.

It is this, and Pa, now that you mention it, Ma, I will be a swell cook doing my kind of work, you don't hear 'Tis Ma, and Pa.

Yes, and Ma, as big a jank as you were at doing his sort of work, Ma, Ma, Ma, and Ma.

One Great National Highway Should Bear President's Name

The Coolidge Highway!
That is what the government should name one of the great transcontinental trunk lines to be built under the Federal Road Aid bill.

The credit for this epochal piece of legislation goes to the President largely. He supplied the leadership, and it was at all times forceful, determined and enthusiastic.

There were members of Congress who, in the name of economy, would have crippled this magnificent program. But President Coolidge, the greatest economist of them all, knew that the cause of national thrift and prosperity would be immeasurably advanced by the creation of a complete general road system.

The President had the vision to see the country as it is and as it should be. Under the former head he saw isolated State road systems, some of them fairly good and others fragmentary. The only connection between these separate regions, he saw, were, in most cases, miserable roads that were practically impassable throughout much of the year.

He saw that the marvelous national parks in the Western and Southern areas were inaccessible by automobile to most Americans. His survey showed him that the so-called national highways are a dot-and-dash system, the dashes being long stretches of rough dirt road. There was not, he discovered, a single continuous paved transcontinental highway.

More important, however, was the picture that the President was able to conjure of a national highway system as it should be. He saw splendid, wide, paved roads running from the Atlantic to the Pacific, many of them; and others crossing them, stretching from Canada to the Gulf and the Mexican border.

What he hoped to see realized was such a gridironing of the country with good roads that America's 20,000,000 motor-car owners would be able to know and enjoy their country to the fullest; that they would be able to go from any point to any other in comfort and with speed. He saw a practical invitation to see America laid down to virtually every doorway.

That was the new America of President Coolidge's vision, and he set about to make it a reality by encouraging through every means possible the adoption of the Federal Road Aid bill.

He had the satisfaction the other day of signing this measure. Through its provisions the Federal government will spend $165,000,000 in the two years ending June 30, 1929, not counting the $75,000,000 that is appropriated for the current fiscal year.

This act insures a comprehensive and complete transcontinental highway system—ten roads from ocean to ocean and ten from Canada to the Southern border. One of these East-West highways is to be completed next year and twenty will be ready for travel by 1931.

It is the most gigantic highway building program in the world's history. There will be 200,000 miles of national paved roads and the ultimate cost to Federal and State governments will be $10,000,000,000.

The President's invaluable service to the country in this legislation should be permanently remembered and honored by a grateful people. One of the first and greatest roads in the system should be named after him!

A Shot in the Dark

How Is the Motorist to Know Whether It Comes From Handicapped or Prohibition Officer?

Prohibition enforcement is seen not at its very best, certainly, when the Maine Automobile Association is moved to send a committee of three distinguished citizens to the Federal Deputy Supervisor for the State of Maine with a request to PLEASE have his officers dress in uniform, when holding up motorists at night.

The Maine tourist season is about to open. Last year's million visitors to Maine left $10,000,000 behind them in the State. SOME motorists, hearing of the recent experience of a Bangor orchestra, MIGHT decide to spend their vacation money in some other State, much as everybody loves Maine. On their way home from a dance in Orono, the jazz players were held up between Sullivan and West Gouldsboro by three armed men, NOT IN UNIFORM, who stepped out from the bushes, began firing at the flying musicians and then pursued them in an open car.

When, finally, it dawned upon the pursued that the men behind might not be holdup men, and might be prohibition officers, they decided to take a chance. So, they stopped—and were promptly "bawled out" for not having stopped before!

Realizing that prohibition enforcement officers are a law unto themselves, the Maine Automobile Association will merely offer a few suggestions. Its committee will respectfully ask, first, that enforcement officers wear a uniform. Then they will recommend, MOST respectfully, that by night the roadside raiders carry a sign with them, a sign reading "Prohibition Officers. Stop!" and that when necessary this sign be illuminated by a spotlight.

We await with interest the reply of the Federal Deputy Supervisor. He may have to "take the matter up with Washington."

In the meantime, it will help a little if some officer, Federal or other, will induce rival bootleggers in Boston to do their shooting in private and not make the sidewalks as unsafe as rum-runners, hi-jackers and officers are making the highways.

Spain Will Compete

Two Ways to Do It

Spain will discourage importation of American automobiles, automobile parts and gasoline, if possible. To do this, Spaniards must compete with us in mass production and price, or follow the example of France, in the time of the Spanish First, after the "Field of the Cloth of Gold." France simply FORBODE the importation of certain extravagant luxuries, and thus were established the French silk, velvet and glass industries. If you WANT them, MAKE them, the French were told, and they made them.

AFTER four successive disappointments, the elephant is looking forward to the North Dakota senatorial primary next week for a reversal of the tide.

Should Mark Hanna's nephew, who is running as a Socialist, defeat the sitting insurgent Senator, Gerald P. Nye, we may hear fierce condemnations of the direct primary as a device to impoverish the manipulators of politics and a handicap on poor but honest ambition.

If, however, Nye should win, expect more diatribes.

DR. CRANE'S VIEWS ON DRY LAW

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE of the characteristics which insures to Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, the confidence of the people of the United States, is his homely common sense.

He is not only an expert in business and has not only made a success of his own profession, but he has skillfully conducted the affairs of the nation's treasury. The other day when he was on a vacation somebody asked him how they were getting along with their prohibition enforcement. His answer was characteristic. It was on the same level of common sense and freedom of factionalism that we have come to expect from him.

"It is doing pretty well," he said, "about as well as our enforcement of other laws. No law can be enforced and no law is enforced perfectly. We have laws against murder, arson and theft which are constantly violated. No one thinks of repealing these laws because of their violation. We are doing about as well with prohibition as might be expected."

This is about the gist of the whole matter. If a law is right no one thinks of repealing it because any certain element continues to break it. If there is a law in a household that children should not scream and cry those children may sometimes perform those unruly acts. But the law in the household is not therefore abrogated.

Things continue their depredations. They break, rob and sometimes murder, but we do not for that reason repeal laws against thuggerly.

The question to be decided is whether the abolition of alcohol as a beverage redounds to the welfare of the nation. If so we shall prohibit it whether that prohibition is violated or not.

As a new generation grows up our ideals will gradually change and public sentiment will be formed more in favor of preserving the law.

The law against dueling was at first pretty generally violated, but in time public sentiment came so to its support that now dueling is rare.

MR. PENNINGTON WAITE likes the common but he doesn't read. I have yet to meet a person who wasn't different from all other people in some way. I have yet to meet a person who didn't fill with wonders and capable of miracles. I have yet to meet a person who hasn't been swept by the story of love, the bitterness of despair, the fury of hate, the chill of fear, the fire of ambition, the tender ministrations of hope.

You think these experiences are the exclusive property of the rich and cultured, and the poor and uneducated. They are in many of the most common of us.

THE HUMAN SOUL WHICH IS NOT SHARDED BY RICH OR POOR Alike.

You may have an appreciation of Zerk's writings which your garbman cannot share, but he has a contact with, garbage which you rarely need. So it seems up, but you are evidently one of the subscribers as these, your lives run surprise.

After all, did you ever stop to consider that many of the books you read and the paintings you cherish and the buildings you admire and the plays you attend were written or painted or built or staged by poor, shabby young men who originally ate with their knives?

You are evidently one of the subscribers to the popular phrase, "COMMON AS DIRT."

Where do you get this "Common People" stuff, anyway? Have you ever met a Common Person? If so you'd better grab the specimen quick and ship it to the zoo. For you've bagged what AIN'T, boy, and your royalties will be something to sneeze at.

This Was REAL Sport

When Young Girls Fought Bulls

A GIRL OF ANCIENT CRETE "WRESTLING A BULL" IN THE DAYS OF LONG AGO.

Of all ancient lands and histories the land and history of Crete are among the most interesting. Crete, an island in the Mediterranean, possessed a highly developed "civilization" thousands of years ago.

Before Greece or Rome had established themselves as nations Crete was the great power, sending her ships on errands of piracy all over the Mediterranean, conquering, through terror and force people on the mainland.

You know the story of the famous Greek Minotaur, half bull and half human, to whom the Greeks were supposed to send at intervals groups of their most beautiful young men and women as sacrifices.

You know also the terrible labyrinth in which the King of Crete kept his prisoners and how Daedalus, father of Icarus, escaped from that labyrinth in the first flying machine on record. Virgil tells about it in the Aeneid.

Your reading ought to include something about Crete, for to know the ancient days and the ancient habits is to understand MODERN TIMES and modern men.

This ancient bronze statue from Crete shows one of the sports that amused the Cretans of long ago. The young girl stood in the arena, waiting for the bull, charging savagely. As the bull dashes at her, she seizes it by the horns, and with unbelievable agility and power throws herself up over the bull's head, onto its back, and thence jumps safely to the ground, using the strength of the bull's neck, thrown upward, to accomplish the feat.

It was called "wrestling the bull." Young women and men, presumably captured slaves, were especially trained in Crete to do this kind of bull wrestling for the amusement of the king, the court and the crowd.

Notice the extremely small waist of the girl in this bronze. Other statues and drawings of these bull wrestlers have been found. They were trained to the highest pitch, their waists brought down to the fewest possible inches, and then a band of metal was put around the waist, and woe to them if they grew fat, the metal would reach their prime, also used to wear fat-fobbing belts of bronze. Such a belt was calculated to discourage overeating.

This ancient bronze represents what you may call REAL sport. In those days the athlete literally "took the bull by the horns." Every move had to be as quick as lightning. As the bull made his charge, the horns were seized; the body of the athlete was thrown upward and backward, the little body bending over until the feet rested on the haunches of the savage animal, while the hands still held the upright horns, a twist of the body, a light leap to the ground, and the feat was performed.

If the wrestler missed, it was death, and another young girl or man, belted with metal, stepped out to meet the bull.

Human beings still enjoy brutality, as our legalized prize-fights show. But sport isn't as dangerous as it used to be, and the "purses" are considerably bigger. All this bull wrestling probably got, when a day's work was done, was a place to sleep and little to eat, that her waist might not get bigger.

STUDYING WOULD HAVE OVERCOME HANDICAPS

You often voice the opinion that the man without a college education who finds a high place must have had a pull somewhere. You don't seem to think it is an achievement worthy of praise. It is to a person's credit to be able to fill acceptably a high position even though handicapped by lack of preparation in early life. Instead of trying to belittle the one who has the job you really covet and can't get, suppose you take a personal inventory and find out just why this person with apparently less education has outstripped you.

The man or woman who overcomes such a handicap has had to do a lot of studying. He has devoted time to study when you and others have been enjoying recreation.

Perhaps you have had things too easy. You don't know what real work is.

If you had to dress yourself money and clothes and good food in order to get an education you might amount to more than you do.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

After the verb "to love," "to help" is the most beautiful verb in the world.

It is the duty of all persons, when affairs are the most prosperous, then in especial to reflect within themselves in what way they are to endure adversity.

Honor lies in honest toil.

A woman's work is never done.

Everyone seeks in something in which another fails.

There is no gathering the rose without being pricked by its thorns.
